

The Flock Building

In 1874, Jacob and Katherine Flock opened a ladies and gentlemen's clothing store in the former Shields Building at 153 Main Street. He moved to larger buildings over the years, eventually erecting The Flock Building on Main Street, pictured here, still stands today as a testament to his business acumen.

For more information on the Flock building, see the book 'Historic Main Street, Hackettstown, New Jersey', available in the Hackettstown Historical Society Museum.
