

OBITUARY

Charles W. Bly

Charles W. Bly, 49, of Hackettstown, died on April 23 at home.

Born in East Chicago, Ind., he had lived in Hackettstown for 16 years, after coming from Somerville, Mass.

He was a registered nurse and was employed by Warren Hospital for the past three years. He also was employed by the Karen Ann Quinlan Center of Hope, in Newton, as a hospice nurse.

He was a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church of Hackettstown, a member of the American Nursing Association, a member of the B.P.O.E. of Hackettstown, and a member of the B.M.W. Motorcycles of America Club.

He is survived by his wife, Brenda, at home; and one son, William T. Bly, of Fort Benning, Ga.

A private burial was held and arrangements were made by the Cochran Funeral Home of Hackettstown. Memorial donations may be made to the Karen Ann Quinlan Center of Hope, 136 Woodside Avenue, Newton, N.J. 07860.

The Star-Gazette: May 4, 1995

NAME: Charles W. Bly

DATE OF DEATH: April 23, 1995